Health and Cheer.
There is longevity in the sunny soul that eases our joys and makes our sides shake with laughter. There is a wonderful medicinal effect in good cheer. Good news and glad tidings have a magic effect even upon invalids. We often see a whole store or factory or home transformed by one sunny soul. On the other hand, we have seen them blighted and made dark by a gloomy, morose, fault-finding person.

How Apes and Monkeys Differ.
What is the difference between apes, baboons and monkeys? Apes are such as are destitute of tails; baboons have muscular bodies, elongated muzzles, and their tails are usually short; monkeys are those whose tails are in general long, some of them, the saps, having prehensile tails, which can at pleasure be twisted around any object, and thereby, in many instances, answers the purpose of an additional hand.

Birthplace of Columbus.
Garcia de la Riega, the great Spanish authority on Columbus, declares himself to be in possession of documents which prove that the explorer's birthplace is Porto Santo, a small village in the vicinity of Madrid and not Genoa, as popular belief will have it. This declaration has aroused a storm of protest, and a society has been formed for the purpose of making researches in order to refute De la Riega's statement.

The Irrepressible Aspirate.
"Englishmen know comparatively little about America, after all," "That's true," replied the harmlessly mendacious person. "Many of them haven't decided whether it ought to be spelled with a capital 'I'."

PROPERTY VALUATION IN NEW ASSESSMENT

TAX COMMISSION'S FIGURES STAND ON ASSESSMENT ROLL FOR PRESENT YEAR

HIGH FIGURES HOLD

Real Estate and Improvements Valued at $11,210,466 and Personal Property at $3,935,355.

There is practically no change in the assessed valuation of the real and personal property in the city of Janesville from the figures placed by the state tax commission in their reassessment last winter, according to the 1912 assessment, the figures for which are now on file in the office of the county clerk.

The total valuation for real and personal property is placed at $15,031,301, which is about five million dollars over the assessed valuation made by the city assessors in 1911. The personal property valuation of the city is placed at $3,935,355 against $2,682,355 for 1911, the city's valuation.

The items of personal property are valued as follows:

Horses, $48	$2,650
Neat cattle, 270	9,025
Vehicles, 994	35,430
Merchants and manufacturers' stock	1,237,122
Leaf Tobacco	588,935
Bank stock	765,369
Automobiles, 223	148,415

The main item of increase in the assessment figures for personal property this year over 1911, is in merchants' and manufacturers' stock which amounts to $491,000, last year's figures being $146,281. An increase of $334,000 in leaf tobacco is also noted for this year, while the value of automobiles is nearly double that of last year.

The value of real estate in Janesville is as follows according to the assessment figures.

Land in the city limits exclusive of improvements,	2,096 acres	$496,560
Buildings as improvements,		366,755
Total		$863,315

City lots exclusive of improvements $3,935,355 |

Buildings as improvements, 6,411,779

Total $10,347,134 |

Total value of real estate, $11,210,466

The increase in the value of city real estate from the city's assessment for 1911 is over $3,767,000, last year's figure being 7,543,255.

MRS. J. A. CANNIFF LAID TO REST TODAY

Funeral Services for One of First White Children Born in This City Held This Afternoon.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. Canniff, one of the first white children born in Janesville, were held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Carroll Methodist church, the Rev. T. D. Williams officiating. Prayers were said at the home, 117 Prospect avenue at 2 o'clock. Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery. The pall bearers were W. J. Cannon, J. W. Webb, H. F. Nott, F. J. Barfoot, Sidney Richards, and MRS. J. A. CANNIFF.

A. W. Hall, Mrs. Canniff, who was the daughter of Ora Phelps, was born in this city July 20, 1848. Mr. Phelps came to this city in 1839 with his son, R. D. Phelps of Green Bay, who still survives. The family lived then in a log house which stood at the corner of North Main and Prospect avenue.

J. Newton Clarida.
J. Newton Clarida died at 11:30 o'clock last evening at his home, 241 Benton avenue, following an illness of brief duration. Mr. Clarida came to this city from Marion, Illinois, in March 1911. He leaves to mourn his loss a widow and two daughters, Ethel and Lois, who reside at home, three brothers, William of Janesville, John of Marion, Illinois, and Louis, of Arkansas, and one sister, Mrs. G. W. Sims, also of Arkansas. Mr. Clarida had been in the employ of the Field Lumber Company for the last six months. Funeral notice will be given later.

Julius Miller.
Julius Miller, who once made his home in Janesville, died at his home in Rhineclander, Tuesday. The body was brought here for burial last evening and was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Herman Vander, Mr. Miller leaves to grieve over his death his daughter, Mrs. Vander, a son, William Miller of this city, and thirteen grandchildren. Funeral services were held at 3:30 Locust street at one o'clock last afternoon, and at St. Paul's Lutheran church a half hour later. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Arthur T. Wilkins.
Last services for Arthur T. Wilkins were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of his son, Roy Wilkins, 515 Lincoln street. Burial was in Oak Hill cemetery.

VOTE IMPROVEMENT FOR JEFFERSON AVE.

Council Passes Resolution Providing For Grading And Re-Surfacing Of Street From Ruger To Oakland Avenue.

Improvement of Jefferson Avenue from Ruger to Oakland Avenue by grading and graveling, and surfacing with crushed stone was provided for in a resolution passed by the City Council at its adjourned meeting yesterday afternoon. The Board of Public Works was directed to make the usual inspection of the adjoining premises to determine benefits and damages to be assessed. The Superintendent of Streets was ordered to repair the southerly part of South Main street below Sharon street.

Plans and specifications for a new drinking fountain to be placed at the intersection of McKee boulevard and Eastern avenue were ordered drawn by the City Engineer C. V. Kerch.

All so-called "sandwich" signs which have obstructed the walks in front of several business places have been ordered removed by Chief of Police Appleby, as their use is in violation of the city ordinance prohibiting the obstruction of sidewalks. These signs which are of an inverted "v" shape, trip up pedestrians. A woman with a child in her arms was so unfortunate as to fall over one last Monday, but fortunately was not injured.

MANILA HEALTH CHIEF VISITS HIS PARENTS

Dr. Louis Schapiro, Cousin of Max Meisel of This City Now Making Stay in Milwaukee.

Dr. Louis Schapiro, Commissioner of Health at Manila, a cousin of Max Meisel of the Meisel Clothing company of this city, is now visiting at the home of his parents in Milwaukee after an absence of five years. He made the homeward journey by way of Europe. Mr. Schapiro went to the islands when he was twenty-one years old, directly after graduating from George Washington university. It was his duty to establish hospital stations in different parts of the islands and to do surgical work. The United States ship Pathfinder carried him from place to place. Dr. Schapiro is one of the youngest health commissioners in the service. He is 26. At the time of the big volcanic eruption at Taal in January, 1911, Dr. Schapiro was the only doctor on the scene for forty-eight hours.

QUESTIONS HARASS THE TICKET AGENT

Not The Sensible Questions, Which Public Has Right To Ask, But The Innumerable Foolish Requests For Information.

It's a gay life! Yes, it is, at that. If you don't believe it, just ask either of the ticket agents, Floyd Davis, or Bert Rutter, and they will tell you numerous reasons why ticket agents are threatened with mental instability. Besides selling tickets and making out reports of the business done by the passenger departments of the two steam railroads in this city, the companies for which they work pay them handsome salaries to act as bureaus of general and interesting information for the edification of the "deer people." And the "deer people," as it were, can drive a poor ticket agent almost to distraction, at times, by the foolish and insane questions which they put to the man behind the ticket window. Here are a few samples of the kind of questions sprung at the man who hands out the transportation slips.

"What time does the next train to Milwaukee leave?"

"Oh, that's the last one? Well, isn't there another one after that?"

Another that is particularly exasperating to a man who is trying to serve his employers, to the best of his ability, and a question that is common, perhaps because of the proximity of the two depots is this:

"I want a ticket to Madison. Do I take the train here, or over at the other depot?"

Here are some more, similar to question that are asked daily at the ticket windows:

"Do you suppose No. 17 will be on time day after tomorrow? Why not?"

"Can you tell me if a young lady in a blue dress and straw hat got off the train which got in from the north at 2:10?"

"What time does the 5 o'clock train leave, and is it going to leave on time?"

"Is the train going to get into Milwaukee on time, do you think?"

"What made No. 7 so late a week ago last Tuesday?"

"Do you think it is safe to ride in a parlor car, or is there apt to be a rear end collision?"

"Why is No. 13 marked up fifteen minutes late?"

"Have you noticed an old gentleman with white whiskers and a telescope here any time today?"

"How do I get to Dink's Corners, Texas, without changing cars?"

"I lost a back comb in the south-bound train three weeks ago last Wednesday. Can you tell me where I can find it?"

"Will you watch for my sister and tell her how to get up to my house? I haven't time to wait for her train."

BELOIT RESIDENCE ENTERED AND ROBBED LAST NIGHT

Valuable Watch One of the Articles Taken From Home of John Gordon—Burglary at Ashland.

Burglars entered the home of John Gordon, of the firm of Gordon Brothers, at Beloit, last evening, and carried away several articles, among them a gold watch of the Howard make. It had a plain case, size 12, and a 17-jewel movement. The number of the works was 397069, of the case 785507.

The local police have also been notified of the burglary of the tailor shop of Harold Hauson at Ashland on August 10 or 11. A number of bolts of cloths were stolen, a consignment of men's suits and some overcoats, in all about $600 worth of fancy goods.

WILL INSTALL BOILERS IN COUNTY BUILDINGS

Work of Installing New Machinery For County Farm Heating Plant Will Begin Tomorrow.

Two new boilers for the heating plant at the county farm arrived and the work of installing them will be commenced tomorrow. The boilers each are rated at one hundred horsepower, and will replace the old boilers which do not furnish adequate power for the needs of the institution. The old boilers are seventy-five horsepower each.

Patients Brought Here.
Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gulickson, superintendent and matron of the La Crosse county insane asylum, came here last evening with a woman patient from the La Crosse asylum and returned home today. The woman's home is in Columbia county and relatives desired her removal to this city. Four patients will be brought to the Rock county asylum tomorrow morning from the state hospital at Mendota. Three of the number are Rock county people, and the other is from La Fayette county.

Old Customs in Synagogues.
When the annual reading of the Book of Esther takes place in the synagogues as a prelude to the festival of Purim the children shake their rattles (Haman "kloppers") vigorously, every time the name of Haman, who was counselor of King Ahasuerus, monarch of ancient Persia, appears in the book. This quaint custom has been observed from time immemorial.—London Evening Standard.

WATER IN ABUNDANCE FOR GOOD TEMPLARS

Ten Days' Downpour at Chain-of-Lakes During Society's Encampment—Crops Badly Damaged. Wisconsin Veterans Home, Aug. 12, 1912.

To the Editor:

If clear, unadulterated cold water is what the Good Templars of Wisconsin want for steady diet they have certainly had an abundance of it in the last ten days, for it has rained every day or night here during that period. The summer session of the Good Templars came to an end yesterday and most of the visitors and delegates departed for their home to-day. The session has proven a successful one and for the first part was very enjoyable, but too much water the last ten days was something not down on the program but the campers were cheerful and took their daily drenchings in good part. If these summer gatherings at Camp Cleghorn could be more numerous attended they would become more popular and the results more encouraging. Financially the session has been a success.

The rains of the past ten days not only made it decidedly uncomfortable for the campers around the Chain-of-Lakes but has proven disastrous to the farmers in that section. Rye and oats were just in shape to harvest when the rains began. On some fields the grain has been cut and bound, the bundles lying on the ground, soaking up the moisture until the straw has rotted and the grain spoiled. Lots of fields are still uncut and the outlook now is that they are not worth harvesting. Corn is looking good and promises to be a bumper crop, but it is too early yet to predict what will be the result on the potato crop which is the main crop in this section. Just now the crop promises well and as the soil is very sandy it will stand a lot of rainfall. We have had no serious washouts in this immediate neighborhood, but they are of frequent occurrence on the Wisconsin river and its tributaries.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

SIN—CONSEQUENCE.

She gazed at the realization—which comes to most of us but is created sooner or later—that sins may be forgiven, but consequences are eternal.

The extract is from a recent novel.

The heroine of the story in a moment of resentment and pique breaks with the man she loves and marries one for whom she cares nothing.

The awakening was a fearful one. She discovers that sin and its consequence grow on the same stem.

However—

That which amazes her most of all is that "a crazy moment should ruin a whole life."

"It was as if a pebble should deflect a river from its course and make it turn and overflow a landscape."

And then—

"Suddenly it seems to her that her whole life had been just a sunny slope down to the edge of a gulf. * * *

It is not the pebble that turns the current. It is the easy slope that invites it. All her life Elizabeth had been inviting this moment, just as some of us are inviting baleful tomorrows."

How true an exposure of human action!

Men and women do not go wrong in a moment. They do not fall suddenly as from a precipice. They tread primrose paths of dalliance down a sunny slope—to the gulf!

No action is isolated.

Each is linked to each like the links of a chain. Once the chain is forged you are bound. Thought, feeling, action, habit, destiny—those are the links; that is the chain.

A man is false in one particular—tells a lie, is mean or cruel or impure, and nothing comes of it. But—

The consequences follow.

The man is started down grade. The descent to Avernus is easy. Later he is launched on the toboggan slide. When he least expects it he has reached the bottom. He is amazed to find that one little act has spelled ruin.

It was not the "crazy moment"—it was "the easy slope," the life tendency, which invited the rash moment.

"Sin may be forgiven, but its consequences are eternal."

Beware "the easy slope!"

A dispatch from London, Ontario, says: When Pitcher Jacobson of St. Thomas Canadian league team was going into the game with London yesterday, a black cat ran in front of him. He picked it up and tucked it in his blouse, saying it was for luck. During the game he was hit over the heart by a terrific foul ball. He was unhurt, but pulled the cat out stone dead, it having probably saved his life.

Artie Schwind, Canadian shortstop is sought by the White Sox. Name does sound good.

Never in the history of the two major leagues has there been a better chance for the ambitious young umpire to win a berth in the majors. There are at least three places on the A. L. staff that are unsettled and an equal number in the other league. It would not be at all surprising if both major leagues sprang some new arbitrators soon.

After trying to win a race for over eight years, Handy J finally won one at Cleveland the other day. Meantime this notoriously unlucky trotter has cost his owner between $30,000 and $40,000. It was once thought that Handy J would prove the greatest trotter the country ever knew, but misfortune befell him. Four or five times he was staked clear through the Grand Circuit, but sickness or something always prevented his doing his best. Jimmy Stahl drove Handy J in his first winning race, selling for $5 and $7 in pools that called for $50 and $60, only a few willing to take a chance backed the luckless horse.

Just as predicted in this column, President August Herrmann of the Cincinnati Reds has announced that he does not think much of the latest move in the direction of a ball players' union. "The new national agreement is much more favorable to the players," says Herrmann, "and I do not think there is much dissatisfaction." Watch the other magnates lined up, craftily, of course.

If Carl Morris, late while hope, could give Johnson the blow he gave Alonzo Minnis near Choctaw City, Okla., he would be champion, according to the story told in Oklahoma City court, where Minnis appeared for an injunction against Morris. There was a quarrel over land owned by the fighter's mother. Morris landed one blow on the jaw. Minnis took the count, and after being revived, straightway sought relief of the court.

NEARLY NINE HUNDRED AUTOMOBILES OWNED

Number in County Registered July 1 Was 867—Janessville Had 275 Accounted For.

Rock County had 867 automobile on July 1 according to the registration of the Secretary of State. Janessville had 275. The number placed on the city tax rolls was 227—the number found by the city assessor up to May 1. Motorcycles are comparatively few, there being not more than 55 in the county, or 15 in Janessville. There are thirty-six automobile dealers in Rock County. The actual number of automobile and motorcycles somewhat exceeds the figures as many sales have been made since July 1.

MANAGERS AND PLAYERS ENJOY AN OPEN MEETING

Nearly Sixty Attend Regular Weekly Meeting Of Commercial League At Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

Managers and players of the Commercial league teams, nearly sixty in all, met together in an open session at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. The meeting was called to order by President Enright of the board of managers and Frank Fraider acted as secretary in the absence of J. C. Kline. There was little business of importance to come before the meeting other than the naming of captains for two nines to be selected from the league for a labor day contest. Skelly Dell and Fred Porter were men decided upon. It was the prevailing opinion among the players that the managers were conducting the business of the league in a highly satisfactory manner. Refreshments of ice cream furnished by the Shurtliff company were served at the close of the business meeting. A vote of thanks was extended to Manager Briggs of the Gazette for his efforts in securing the trophies from the merchants as rewards of merit for the various teams and players.

GINK AND DINK HIGH PRICES HOLD ON THE HOG MARKET

Quotations Are A Shade Higher Today With Receipts At 25,000—Demand For Beesves Strong.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Aug. 14.—High prices continued to be offered for hogs on the market this morning. Although receipts of 25,000 were considered large for this time of the year, quotations were a shade higher than yesterday. The demand for the best hogs was strong and prices were high, the top being $10.45 which is the season's record. Poorer grades were not in demand and prices were somewhat lower. Sheep held steady at yesterday's average. Quotations are given as follows:

Cattle—Receipts 19,000; market best heaves strong, others steady to shade lower; heaves 5.75@10.45; Texas steers 5.00@5.90; western steers 4.25@4.90; stockers and feeders 4.00@7.00; cows and heifers 2.65@3.15; calves 6.50@9.75.

Hogs—Receipts 25,000; market steady, shade higher; light 8.05@8.65; mixed 7.60@8.62½; heavy 7.50@8.45; rough 7.50@7.70; pigs 6.00@8.25; bulk of sales 7.90@8.40.

English School Boy Camps.

We are familiar with the open-air school, but at Harrow, in England, the County Council is of opinion that this system is capable of extension, so the headmaster has arranged for every boy in the county school to encamp for a week in turn in the playing fields. The boys will sleep in tents, and attend themselves to all their wants, even doing their own cooking one day during the week. They will rise at 6:30 a. m. and turn in at 9:30 p. m., and there will be five hours' teaching daily. There can be little doubt that such a system carries with it many advantages. It teaches boys to be self-reliant, tidy, and useful, and will entail no extra cost on the rates, other than that of the tents, for the boys provide their own food.

IS SARCASTIC.

In view of the many efforts of the present congress to investigate this or that particular industry, the high cost of living, the death rate and many other incidents of every day life, the Wall Street Journal waxes sarcastic at the recent report of the steel investigation and in the following language makes suggestions to congress and congressmen as to their real duties and possibilities for the betterment of mankind and general conditions.

"When the chairman of a congressional investigating committee announces, as a result of his statesman-like labors, that he hopes to put a corporation employing 250,000 hands into bankruptcy, the sensible people of the United States smile. It is rather a rueful smile, and on the wrong side of the mouth. They know that the proposition is childish, probably only made to influence the noisy group of minor politicians which assures his job in congress. He cannot attain such an end; but he can do a good deal of mischief in the way of deceiving people who believe that business organized on a large scale has some criminal quality about it.

"This, of course, is the fallacy which deceives politicians of the kind. They talk of the high cost of living, and yet fail to see how heavily they themselves burden that part of the population which is least able to protect itself. When congress, for instance, appropriates $10,000,000 for pensions in a single year, or some $10,000,000 for that particular form of graft which consists in giving a $30,000 post office to a thirty-cent village, in order to 'strengthen the fences' of the politicians who make investigation reports of the kind described, it is forgotten that every dollar of these amounts means that a producing somebody has to create a dollar's worth of wealth in order to pay the bill.

"When, for instance, a congressman puts in a bill for anything from $500 to $2,000 for his mileage, he comforts himself with the reflection that the United States treasury is rich enough to pay a thousand such bills as his. He does not know that the treasury has not a dollar it can call its own. It cannot expend a dollar for any purpose whatever which it does not take from somebody. It must ultimately take the dollar from the citizen who is creating wealth.

"If, for instance, a municipality embarks upon an unproductive enterprise, it must necessarily tax the citizens for the cost. It believes that by imposing taxes upon real estate it places the burden upon the richest of the community. That part, however, can shift the burden to the rent-payer. The rent-payer is the small store-keeper—or the large one, for that matter—and he places that burden upon the commodities he sells. The small consumer, in whose interest all this extravagant expenditure is supposed to be made, pays the bill, because he cannot shift it elsewhere. The result would be the same in any scheme of public ownership of productive facilities, because the actual producer of wealth would have to pay for the keep of the horde of non-producing parasites which such ownership does, and always will, create.

"Paying the bill for federal, state and municipal extravagance, professedly undertaken in the interests of the working classes, is perhaps the heaviest burden of the high cost of living under which the small consumer groans today.

NO SPLIT TICKETS.

There can be no split tickets at the primary. That is, the voter can not vote for a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket and a candidate for the state senate on the republican slate. He must either vote the democratic or the republican ticket straight. Opponents to the income tax law and the excessive state laws passed by the reformers, who think they see great benefits to their views by voting for a democratic nominee for governor, must stop and consider how small a part the governor really plays in passing legislation. If you want the reforms you argue for assured, take care to send to the legislature men who will reform them. The governor, no matter how opposed he may be to the reform legislation, is powerless to accomplish anything unless he has a legislature back of him. The candidates for the assembly and state senate have all come out in the open and announced their views on matters of state importance. The district, both for the state senate and assembly, is republican, consequently care must be taken in nominating the candidates for these offices as they will probably be elected. If you are earnestly advocating the repeal of the income tax law then vote for the republican candidate at the primary that stands for this—Laurence Whitely. Mr. Cunningham would like to see it reformed, as doubtless would Mr. Gettle, but Whitely stands out flat-footed for its repeal and as this law has affected Wisconsin industries seriously, already, it is time for radical action.

ETHICS PLACED ABOVE JUSTICE.

Now Hugh M. Dorsey, the public prosecutor at Atlanta, Ga., who conducted the state's case against Mrs. Grace, accused by her husband of trying to murder him, says that he could have brought about her conviction if he and his wife had taken the witness stand. The Dorseys lived opposite the home of the Graces and on the night of the shooting heard the revolver reports. Dorsey says he and his wife were in a position to swear that Mrs. Grace, contrary to her sworn statements, was at home at the time. But he believed that for him or his wife to appear as a witness against a defendant whom he was prosecuting would be a violation of the ethics of the legal profession. He consulted eminent judges on the subject and they agreed with him. So the state was prevented from having the benefit of what would undoubtedly have been its strongest evidence.

Prosecutor Dorsey may be applauded by the lawyers for the course he took but he will not be by the public. To the average citizen, adherence to the kind of ethics that forbade him to testify against Mrs. Grace, in a profession which considers it no dishonor for its members to secure, by sharp, technical practice, the acquittal of murderers and other evil-doers whom they know to be guilty, is somewhat finicky, to say the least. And he did not improve matters by revealing the fact, after Mrs. Grace had been acquitted. Having elected to risk losing his own case, he should at least have remained silent instead of attempting to save his pride at the expense of the woman he had failed to convict.

But perhaps Prosecutor Dorsey should not be blamed too much. His course only reflected a spirit common in American court procedure. Right here in Jansville, in these days, justice, even with her sword, is often not able to cut her way out of the maze of precedent, technically and outworn forms in which nearly every lawsuit entangles her.

It was a surprise to the habitual drunkard brought into court yesterday to be given a stiff jail sentence. Evidently he thought he had made a mistake and dropped into the Beloit or Edgerton court. It will be a good lesson for others who are continual offenders and a few sentences like the one handed out will give the "bums" a wholesome respect for the law.

This question of second choice is going to confuse many a voter at the primary and the advise is, if you do not fully understand it do not try to vote it, for perhaps your good intentions of supporting your chosen candidate might be lost and your vote thrown out as defective.

Eating corn on the cob in public is a declaration of independence in pantomime, says an exchange. True, but a better way is to try and eat a hunk a melon the same way. That is absolute declaration with the noisy accompaniment.

Congress is beginning to wonder how it is going to square itself with the public for its long session which has resulted in practically no great results.

Drunken women in saloons have no place in a community like Jansville. They are not tolerated in respectable retail shops and the other kind should have no sympathy of the authorities.

These are anxious days for the politicians. The time is short before the primaries and the last hard licks must be put in if anything is to be accomplished.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

The Last Fly of Summer.
(With apologies to Thomas Moore.)
'Tis the last fly of summer,
Left buzzing alone,
All her lovely companions
Are swatted and gone,
Not one of her kindred
Of summer survives.
They've given up ere now,
Their billions of lives.
Their billions of lives.

I'll not leave thee, thou lone one,
To stagger about
Since thy kindred are sleeping
I must knock thee out.
Thus kindly I swat thee
Upon thy bald head
As thy mates, now all swatted,
Lie buzzing and dead.

So thou must follow.
Fly heaven's thy goal,
No longer to crawl in
The old sugar bowl.
When true hearts are withered
And ones are flown,
Thou must not inhabit
The bleak world alone.

Some Things We Have Never Seen.
An automobile that was really running at its best.

A bowlegged man who could get many dancing partners.
A book agent who didn't look as though he was out for the ministry.
A ten-cent glass cutter that would work when you wanted it to.
A genuine diamond on the stage.
A society leader who wanted to have her picture in the paper.
A barber who couldn't name every champion since Jem Mace.

Nothing to Think About.
A judge visited a northern summer resort recently and during the course of his stay engaged the old "landlord" in conversation.

"Keeps you pretty busy all summer, doesn't it?" asked the judge.

"Oh yes tolerably busy," was the reply.
"What do you do all winter?"
"Well, I'll tell you," said the old man. "In the winter we sit around and think and sometimes we just sit around."

According to Uncle Abner.
Some of the greatest diction in this world is inscribed on the tombstones. There ain't nothing in this life which is so audacious as the toast-master's introduction of a banquet speaker, whether it is true or not. There is only one social function in this world where everybody pres-

Have you been to the races yet? If not, be sure and attend them. It is a good way to boost Jansville and promote a sport that will again place Jansville on the map.

Gertrude Atherton, the author, has given up a trip to Europe in order to stump California for Wilson. Surely she has enough creative imagination to invent a better excuse than that.

It is reported that one of the fugitive members of the Allen outlaw gang is in New York. Taking lessons from one of the prominent gunmen there, probably.

Now that the dictograph is coming into general use there ought to be good openings for instructors in the deaf-mute language in some of the state capitals.

Possibly the reason why the Boston club is in the lead is that its players effectually disguise their signals by calling them out in the Boston language.

Our navy appears to be able to find uncharted reefs just as easily as you can find the rocker of a chair at night when you rise to answer the telephone.

Governor Wilson balks at the big campaign fund, but before he gets through he will find he needed every cent of it even if he does run second.

MISS WARE PLAYS IN NEW STUNNER

Miss Helen Ware

Miss Helen Ware, who has got close to the hearts of American theatergoers in the last few years, will appear this season in a new piece, "The Trial Marriage," which is expected to cause a wave of discussion across the land.

ent doesn't covet the place of honor and that is a funeral.
High society in our village is getting higher than ever. The fellers are getting so they wear their suits to the base ball games in the afternoon.

The outlandish feller in this world is a street car motorman when he tried to run an automobile.
The ambition of some fellers' lives is to be invited up on the stage as a committee to watch the professor as he does his cabinet tricks.

How to be Happy.
Don't eat grape fruit without first putting on a rubber suit.
Let somebody else buy and carve the Thanksgiving turkey.

Take plenty of exercise. There is none better than shoveling coal into the furnace.
Live a long distance away from your second cousins.

Have four aces every time you open a jackpot.
Give your wife a stipulated sum every week, even if it is as high as 25 cents.

Marry a widow with nine children, all of whom are working.

The Militant Suffragents.

T. P. G. writes to the headquarters of our Militant Suffragents organization as follows: "I suppose you think you did a smart thing when you got me to join the Militant Suffragents. I thought it was all right at first and it certainly listened good. You know that men are women's equals and I know it but my wife doesn't know it, and I can't convince her. The time is not ripe for a crusade for equal rights for men, however, just the fight may be. I have been eating cold canned goods all alone in the kitchen since I joined your ding-busted order, and you can count me out from now on."

And There You Are.

A few newsweek stories all sounding just the same.
An article on the congressional game: A muckraker's yarn that is made to sound fair.
Exposing some recently made billion-aires.
Some "choc'us girls' pictures you've seen oft before;
Some "poems," the reading of which is a chore;
Then 200 pages of touring car ads.
Appealing to those who are blessed with the seeds.
The table of contents, here mentioned, I ween,
Describes almost any New York magazine.

SUCCESS OF INITIAL GATHERING OF HORSEMEN IN CITY IS ASSURED.

THURSDAY A HOLIDAY

Afternoon—Good Races—Fast Horses—Brick Back Memory of Days of Former Meetings.

That Janesville is once more on the map as the center of the harness racing was evidenced this afternoon when Starter John L. Fisher, gave the word "Go" to the first heat of the 2:18 pace at the new tracks of the Park Association.

It was an enthusiastic crowd that swarmed the track, filled the grandstand and stood along the wire at the home stretch and cheered the winners.

SCENES AT THE DRIVING PARK.

Track Marshall Alva Maxfield has hard work keeping his track clear for the racers and he was a busy man summoning out the mags entered for the next heats. It was like old times and the success of the initial meet of the Park Association is assured.

Frank L. Smith was clerk of the course, E. J. Van Pool, John C. Nichols and George Paris of this city, the timers and from their new timers and judges stand they gave impartial decisions on their merits to the many entries.

The track was fast, not as fast as it will be Thursday, Janesville Day, but fast enough to make stolid horsemen sit up and take notice. Janesville is on the map again and if the August meetings become half as popular as did the old June gatherings, the future of the track meet is assured. In fact many horsemen promise twice the number of entries next season as this. If this be true then twice the number of barns are needed as the present quarters are crowded and tents have had to be erected to accommodate the late entries.

"Think of a field of a hundred fast horses, the pick of the middle west here to compete? It means that after the three days racing here the news that Janesville is again in the field for races, will bring hundreds of trainers here to look over the field with a view of bringing their strings here next spring for preliminary training.

John C. Nichols, president of the Park Association, is much pleased with the prospects. Charles Putnam, secretary and general manager is more than gratified and the new treasurer, Ed. Amerpohl, says the only thing to be desired is the support of the citizens to assure its success. T. S. Nolan, A. G. Jones, Geo. M. McKee, J. J. Sheridan, directors, are also gratified with the initial meet and next year's gathering of fast steeds will surpass the present one.

There are over a hundred entries for the three days meet, the best in this section of the country. The Bower City band is furnishing the musical inspiration for the grand stand is full and everyone delighted that the city is again a racing center. Frank Smith, in the Judge stand as clerk of the course, John Fisher as starter, by the way he goes to Milwaukee to the state fair shortly to act as a judge of the races there, and other old timers in evidence means that all horsemen will have no complaint to make.

Thursday, tomorrow, will be Janesville day. The majority of the business places have closed for the afternoon, those not yet seen by Secretary Lane of the Commercial club, who is securing names, will doubtless be reached by evening and the whole city will be in attendance at the greatest race meet seen here since the days of the old June gatherings when horses from east and west came here to compete for the purses offered.

Today's Races.

The judges at the races this afternoon were Jack Ward of Milwaukee, Grant U. Fisher of this city and Dr. Chesborough of Beloit. The first race of the afternoon was the 2:18 pace, in which nine horses were started. The entries were as follows:

Alship—Ovey Johnson, Madison, Wis.
Vermont, B. G.—Howard Minshall, Viroqua, Wis.
Belle Charleston, B. M.—A. L. Mend, Shell Rock, Iowa.

Airship, 7th; Little Man, 8th; Vermont, 9th. Time of heat, 2:13 3/4.

Second Heat, 2:18 Pace.
Bobby K., 1st. Time, 2:10 3/4.

First Heat, 2:35 Trot.
The first heat of the 2:35 trot was won by Bessie B., owned by E. S. Burwell of Madison, in 2:23 3/4.

The breaking of a strap of the harness of Miss Pugh, owned by W. G. Gettings of Racine, caused the horse to break and the driver was pulled out of his seat. The horse finished tenth in the heat. The results of the heat were as follows:
Bessie B., 1st; Fred Harding, 2nd; Six Cylinder Penn., 3rd; Pelanto, 4th; Coloman, 5th; Sir John, 6th; Lottie Grattan, 7th; Gen. Oakley, 8th; Elirbello, 9th; Miss Pugh, 10th.

Special Race—$100 Purse.
The first heat of a special race for local horses for a purse of one hundred dollars was run after the first heat of the 2:35 trot was finished. The race was run on the half mile track and the first heat was won by Major K., owned by William Kuhlow, in 1:20 3/4. The entries in the race in which they finished were as follows:

Major K., Wm. Holt, driver, Wm. Kuhlow.
Dexter A., E. J. Schindley, owner.

MANY ATTEND PICNIC AT LAKE KOSHKONONG

Perfect Weather For Outing Of Odd Fellows and Rebekah Lodges At Fun Hunter's Point.

Perfect weather favored the joint picnic of the Odd Fellows' lodges in District No. 35 at Fun Hunter's Point, Lake Koshkonong today and nearly every lodge was well represented. Between twenty-five and thirty couples left this city on the morning train, and more went up at noon. Many made the trip overland by auto and carriage. Mayor James A. Fathers was among the Janesville people in attendance.

ADMITTS RUNNING CAR WITHOUT A LICENSE

Allen Welch Changes Plea of "Not Guilty" to "Guilty"—Fined $10 and Court Costs.

Allen Welch, the young man who was placed under arrest on Thursday evening at the corner of North Broadway and West Milwaukee street, charged with operating an automobile without a license number, this morning entered a plea of "guilty" to the charge through his attorney, Thomas Nolan, withdrawing the plea of "not guilty" which was entered for him in the municipal court Friday morning. Attorney Nolan explained that his client's offense was the result of mis-information and as it was the first offense asked that he be given the minimum penalty. District Attorney Stanley Dunwiddie made the same recommendation to the court and Judge Piffeld imposed a fine of $10 and costs taxed at $3.

Friendship That Is Worthy.

Oh the comfort—the inexpressible comfort of feeling safe with a person—having neither to weigh thoughts nor measure words, but pouring them all right out just as they are, chaff and grain together, certain that a faithful hand will take and sift them, keep what is worth keeping and with a breath of kindness blow the rest away.—Dinah Mulock.

Beginnings of Lifeboat.

Like many other inventions, the lifeboat was a long time in finding favor. The first lifeboat was designed by a London coach builder, Lionel Lukin, in 1785, under the encouragement of the prince of Wales, but despite royal patronage, his invention received little attention, though one of his boats saved several lives at Bamborough. The loss of the Adventure in 1780 first destroyed public apathy in this subject and, with the offering of prizes for lifeboat designs a first step toward life saving at sea was taken.

Dinner Stories

Children's arguments are often unanswerable. The other day a child said to her mother: "I wish I had a new doll, mamma." "But your old doll," her mother answered, "is as good as ever." "So am I as good as ever," the little girl retorted, "but the doctor brought you a new baby."

They were seeking to impress the visitor. "If you really wish to get an idea of the toughness of New York toughs," answered one, "you should by all means attend the annual ball given by the Gorilla Club. It is absolutely the toughest stunt that is pulled anywhere. If you don't get action there for your money you won't get it anywhere. Do you mean that fights are common at that ball?" Inquired the man-to-be-impressed. "Am I to understand that shootings?" He got no further. One of the others leaned forward, solemnly took hold of his sleeve, and remarked: "Fights? Shootings? Why, every single person that starts to go into the Gorilla Club hall is stopped outside and searched for concealed weapons, and, if he hasn't any—they give him some!"

Addison Mizner, the well-known New York first-nighter, told, at a studio supper, a prominent business man's experience. "A chandelier fell in the night in his house," explained Mr. Mizner, "and in the morning at breakfast he said to his wife with a laugh: 'What did you think, my love, when you heard the chandelier fall in the dead of the night?' 'I thought, during,' his wife answered, 'that you had been detained on business again and were getting upstairs as quietly as you could.'"

It is the twelfth of the zodiacal constellations and one of the oldest of the star groups, though it is by no means a conspicuous figure. It contains four or five stars of about the third magnitude, but none brighter. The principal August shower of meteors is due the night of the 16th. These shooting stars are known as the Lyrids, because their paths through the sky appear to radiate from a spot near the first magnitude star Vega in the constellation Lyra, this spot being the "vanishing point" of the series of parallel lines along which the meteors are presumably moving through space. Some years the display of Lyrids is much better than others, but, with a moderate amount of patience one can be reasonably sure of seeing some of them on almost any evening from the 7th to the twelfth.

The yellow Perseids whose radiant point is in the constellation Perseus, are also due in the early days of August, and may continue to fall etc. in scattering fashion for several weeks.

THE HEAVENS IN AUGUST.

On any fine moonless night that we may happen to have at this time of year, the Milky Way is undoubtedly the most striking feature of the heavens. At the hour of the map it stretches from horizon to horizon, an arch of cloudy light that passes just east of the zenith. Its whole length is studded with brilliant asterisms, from Perseus in the north to the little Milk Dipper that hangs inverted just above the southern sky-line. Its beauty never fails to charm even the unthinking glance, and when one reflects that this nebulous arch is in reality composed of hundreds of millions of blazing suns, whose fierce rays have been reduced by immensity of distance to the soft glimmering we see, the imagination, as well as the eye, is captivated and held entranced.

Galileo was the first to discover the essence or substance of the Milky Way. With his first little telescope, made three centuries ago, he was able to observe what had long been conjectured and what any one can now see with an opera glass, that "the galaxy is nothing else but a mass of innumerable stars grouped together in clusters."

These stars are unnumbered still, despite the wonderful telescopes of this day and the effective photographic methods employed. They can be estimated only in terms of hundreds of millions. Prof. Eickerton has recently expressed the opinion that there are at least one billion suns, vivid and dead, in the universe. Their distance is a matter for wonder rather than for estimate. Measured by the speed of light, which darts across the 93,000,000 miles between sun and earth in less than nine minutes, portions of the galaxy must be some thousands of years away, maybe three thousand, maybe thirty thousand, perhaps more. At any rate, the Milky Way marks the limit, as it is believed to form the ground plan of the universe. Of the "beyond" the wisest astronomer knows no more than Galileo did.

On a small map it is impossible to do more than roughly indicate the outlines of the Milky Way. Fortunately the unaided eye is better able to trace its boundaries and detect its beauties than any telescope.

The galaxy's main stream and branches involve nearly the whole of the constellation Auriga, now just below the northern horizon. Its stream is brilliant in Perseus, and again in Cassiopeia. In and about Cygnus are many bright knots and streaks involving the whole of the Northern Cross. South from this the galaxy splits into two main branches of which the more brilliant passes through Aquila and into Sagittarius, while the other fades away into Ophiuchus. The stream of the Milky Way varies greatly in brilliancy and its borders are often ill defined.

The average city dweller sees little of the Milky Way. Where the atmosphere is filled with smoke and dust and the sky reflects the glow of many street lamps, it may be altogether invisible. But out in the country or at sea, the watcher will be able to observe a surprising amount and variety of detail.

The Great Square of Pegasus is now clear of the horizon and is the most conspicuous figure in the eastern sky. The square is really composed of Pegasus and one, the Alpha, of Andromeda.

Aside from Andromeda and a part of Perseus, Aquarius is the only new constellation on the map this month.

ONRUSHING TRAIN DEMOLISHES AVIATOR VEDRINE'S MONOPLANE, BIKEMAN BADLY INJURED BUT IS NOW ON ROAD TO RECOVERY.

The above photograph shows the demolished machine of the famous French aviator, Vedrine, lying beside the railroad track near Paris. Vedrine, who was making a flight, suddenly dropped to the railroad track and an onrushing train demolished the machine, injuring the aviator. Vedrine was removed to the hospital, where it was feared he would die. He is now on his way to recovery.

THE THEATERS

"THE SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS." No modern writer of fiction can claim as many readers as Harold Bell Wright, his books having sold in the millions. The most popular of the Wright novels, "The Shepherd of the Hills," has been made into a play by Mr. Wright, with the assistance of Elsbury W. Reynolds. The first presentation of "The Shepherd of the Hills" in this city will be given at the Myers Theatre Sunday, Aug. 25, matinee and evening.

The story has been so widely read that a resume of it is practically unnecessary. It is a story of the Ozark mountains and of a people that live wholesome, clean lives, who do big things in a matter of fact way. It is a play that makes its auditor a better man or woman for having seen it.

Counterfeiting of Gems. While the demand for precious stones increases, despite counterfeits, there is shown these days an amazing ingenuity in the manufacture of the imitations, both in this country and abroad. The counterfeiting of gems has always existed, but in recent years the work has been brought to a state of perfection not dreamed of by the workers of ancient times.

Queue Wearers Boycotted. At the market, Kuala Lumpur, sellers wearing queues are left severely alone by queueless buyers, while on several of the estates the few coolies wearing queues who remain are afraid to go into the towns and villages to buy things. On one estate, it is said, the Chinese who still have the appendage are actually purchasing their rice from the Tamil coolies employed there.—Malay Mail.

MODESTY AND SIMPLICITY OF THIS DANCER CAPTURES LONDON, SICK OF THE BIZARRE

Mlle. Lydia Kyasht

London's best and most graceful dancer, the modest Mlle. Lydia Kyasht, for a long time the leading attraction at the Empire theater, London, who danced before the king and queen of England, at his majesty's request, has taken the London public by storm. Her method of interpreting "Terpsichore," the muse of dances in costume which are modest, and her discarding the bizarre manner of dances used by the so-called "modern" performer, has called forth unstinted praise in the highest circles. Mlle. Kyasht has won great favor in the eyes of the royal family by her simplicity and modesty.

FIANCEE STICKS TO YOUTHFUL FORCE

Gertrude Clark

"Joe's arrest affect our engagement? Well, I should say not. It'll just delay our plans, that's all." Gertrude Clark, sixteen, of Cleveland, says she'll wait for the release of her fiancé, Joseph Leslie, eighteen, jailed on the charge of forging his employer's name to checks. Leslie was a bookkeeper authorized to sign checks and he is said to have signed a few on his own account. Miss Clark is trying to have him freed, declaring he just made a mistake.

FARMERS' PICNIC HELD ON ALEON PRAIRIE TODAY.

Many Edgerton Citizens Enjoy Outing on Henry Marsden's Farm—Other News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Aug. 14.—A farmer's picnic in Henry Marsden's grove on Aleon Prairie attracted many people from this city today. The farmers of that section have for many years gathered once annually to enjoy a day's outing in various sports, including baseball, speaking, parade, etc. The Edgerton concert band enlivened the occasion with music today.

Edgerton News Notes.

Mrs. James Spike went to Aleon Prairie yesterday to spend the remainder of the week with relatives.

Mrs. James McIntosh left yesterday for Prairie du Chien to receive treatment for rheumatism at that place.

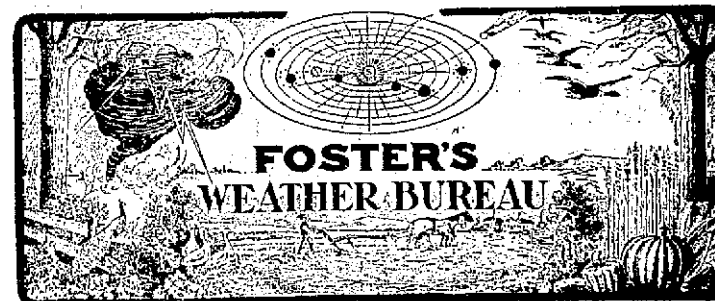

Mrs. J. B. Williams and son Ray after a stay here of one week with the families of George Ogden and Andrew McIntosh, departed yesterday for their home in Dyersville, Iowa.

Albert Strickler, Sr., of Richland Center is here on a visit of a number of days to his sons, William and August Strickler and other relatives.

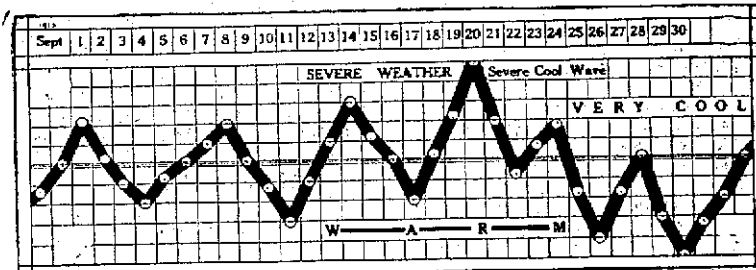

Aaron Carlson has just returned after an absence of two months which he spent in Sweden, his native home.

Frederick and Albert Flensberg left last night for Sandwich, Ill., having accepted positions there.

The inaugural meeting which opened in Janesville today called many Edgerton people to that city this morning. Being a three days' event the turnout from here will increase in attendance daily.

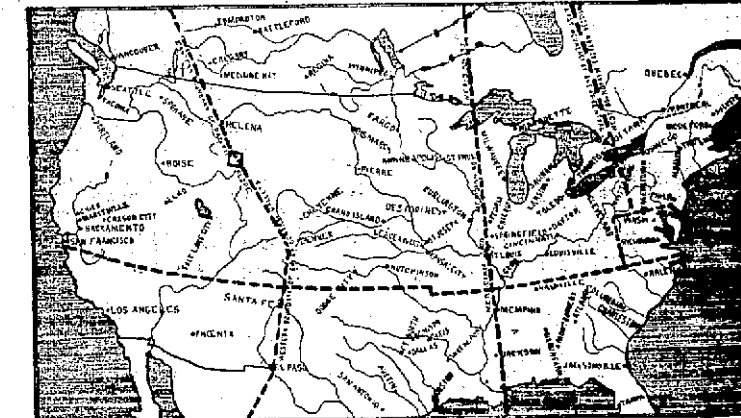

FOSTER'S SEPTEMBER, 1912, WEATHER CHARTS.

September temperatures will average about normal, first and last ten days being the coolest part of the month. Very warm middle third of month. Severe cool wave September 20th to 26th, causing northern killing frosts. Heavy rains last third of month. First 20 days of month generally dry.

In above chart the treble line represents normal temperatures. The heavy line with round white spots is temperature forecasts. Where it goes above treble line temperatures are expected to be higher. Where it goes below treble line temperatures will be lower. Dates are for Meridian 90. Count one or two days earlier for West of that line and as much later for East of it.

Buick Motor Company Announces Its New Line For Year 1913

Beauty of Design, Full Equipment and Mechanical Features Mark Latest Models.

The mammoth plant of the Buick Motor Co., of Flint, Mich., which always makes a visitor, when he gets his first view, gasp over its extraordinary size and scope, is awakening to renewed activity and industry. Within a week or two the factory will be running at high speed and full capacity for the production of 30,000 of the Buick model for 1913, everything having been cleared away and made ready for the start of the new season of productivity. The preliminary operations have been extensive and have covered a considerable period of time, but now the initial stages having been passed successfully and all details arranged, the business of turning out the new cars is well under way.

The entire output of last season was sold in June. This success, the management believes, is a pretty good indication of the Buick quality and of what can be expected in the 1913 cars. In fact the definite promise is made that every model of the new line is so built that it will not only protect but enhance the reputation so emphatically won and firmly established.

Briefly listed, the 1913 line consists of the following: Model 24, two-passenger roadster, 28-horsepower, fully equipped, $950; model 25, five-passenger touring car, 28-horsepower, fully equipped, $1050; model 30, new type roadster, 32-horsepower, fully equipped, $1,125; model 31, five-passenger touring car, 32-horsepower, fully equipped, $1,285; model 40, five-passenger touring car, fully equipped, $1,285; model 40, five-passenger touring car, 40-horsepower, $1,650. These prices include every practical improvement that has demonstrated its value, either in the operation of the car or the convenience and pleasure of its owner.

Those who have had the privilege of viewing these models have been struck at the first glance by the advance made in the external appearance of the cars. Before an examination is made of the mechanical features the eye is arrested by the beauty of the lines which give all the 1913 models a distinction that is described by the enthusiasts as rakish and snappy. It is asserted as an incontestable fact that the new Buicks are cars that the owner will be proud of because they reveal class in their design.

One of the features observed on all the new Buicks is the character of the upholstery. It is of the highest grade, deep and rich, and in model 40 it has been extended up and over the edge of the body and the door, the leather reaching a short distance down the outside, thus adding not only to the comfort but to the appearance of the car.

The new style of Buicks are trimmed with black and nickel, some of the models being shown with gray bodies and others in black. All Buicks for 1913 include self-starters. It would be impossible to ignore the advantages the Buick product has, due to the fact that the huge plant producing these motor manufacturers all the essential parts of the car from the ground up. The drop forge plant, a fearsome place to the visitor, is one of the largest in the world. Nothing in the Buick car is left to guesswork. Everything is made according to exact specifications gauged to a thousandth part of an inch. The plant is therefore a complete and exact producer and not an assembling institution, so that a Buick is a Buick straight through. This gives the car an advantage that is revealed in the smoothness of its operation and its durability that few can boast of.

Buick has established an enviable reputation for building high grade, serviceable automobiles, and the 1913 line represents the best efforts of this mammoth organization.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT BUICK WILL BUILD THEM.

We are promised some of the new models within a few days and we invite you to inspect them carefully before placing your orders elsewhere.

IN EDGERTON, WIS.

King, Cowles & Fifield

LAST WINTER, in buying our shoes for the Spring and Summer trade, we, optimistically looked ahead and saw perfect seasons for the shoe trade. We bought heavily, only to have the Spring season open late, the Summer weather begin slowly and even now when we should be at the height of Summer it seems just beginning.

We have made up our mind to admit our mistake and accept our punishment. Our shelves are full of the highest classes of Summer footwear; stock that should have been sold a month ago at a profit, but now it's got to go at a loss.

There is a lot of time left this Summer and Fall to get the worth of a pair of slippers or oxfords; three months from now you will not have discarded your low shoes; why not wear new ones?

OUR STOCK IS AT YOUR MERCY

It's got to go and we offer it to you at less than cost. There is not a thing the matter with these goods but the space they occupy and the fact that they represent the money we must have to pay for our Fall line.

FLYING MEN SNAPPED IN, MID-AIR BY A CAMERA CARRIED ON A WING

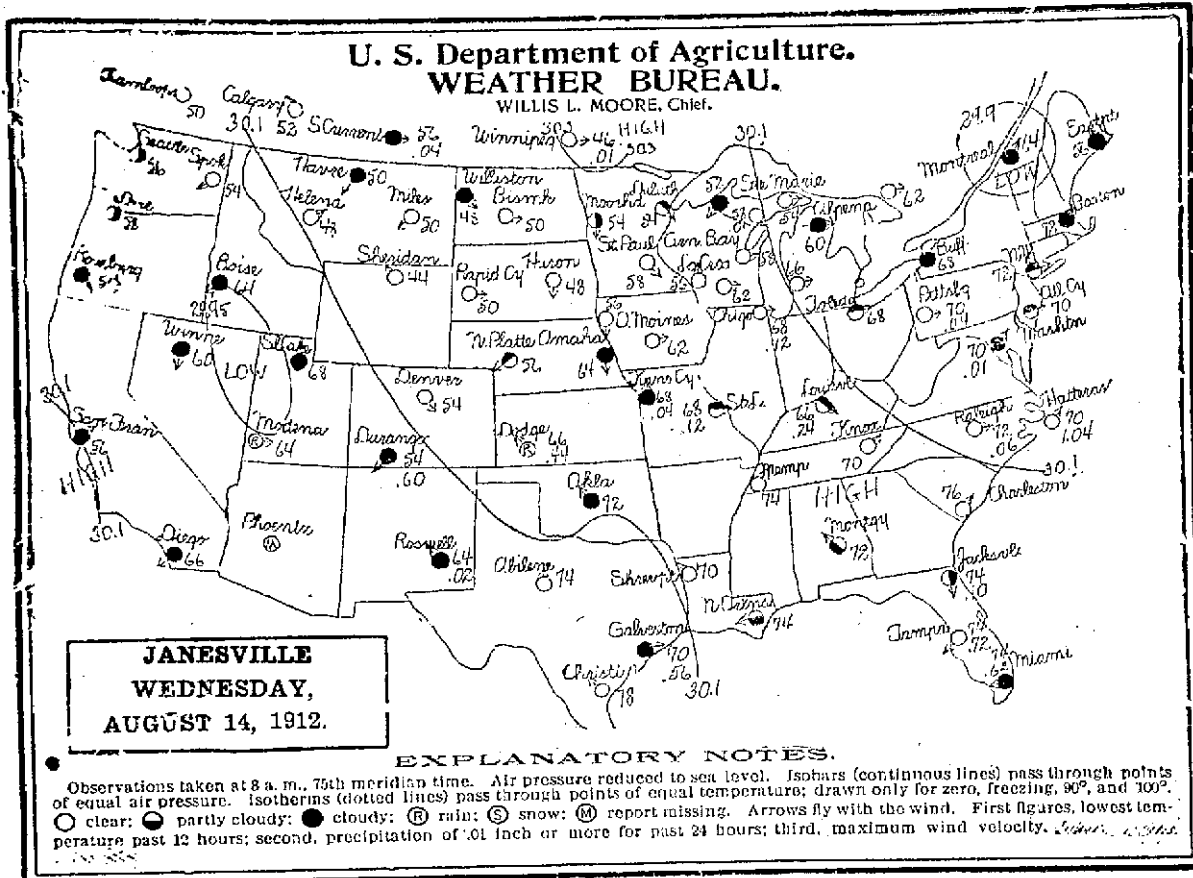

Photograph taken by Andre Schelcher and Pierre Debroutelle aboard a biplane 1,000 feet above the chateau of Breteuil, host in France of the Prince of Wales.
 So many photographs of monoplanes and biplanes in flight have been published that they have come to be commonplace. But here for the first time is a snap of an aeroplanist and his passenger, taken by themselves while in flight, from a camera placed on a wing of the machine. Though the camera was very light, a balancing weight had to be placed on the opposite wing.

Was She Insured?

An extract from a popular novel: "He pressed a burning kiss upon either cheek and straightway her face became ashen."—Judge.

Rains have occurred in the last twenty-four hours in the Ohio valley, the middle Atlantic states, North Carolina and Florida, the greatest amount reported being 1.04 inches at Hatteras. Rains are also reported this morning over Utah, Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico in connection with an area of low barometer central over the southern Plateau.

There is an area of high barometer, central over Manitoba, which has caused fair weather over Canada and the northwestern states and over the Lake region. This area will move eastward and will be attended by fair weather in this vicinity tonight and Thursday, with somewhat lower temperatures tonight.

A Little History--And A New Request

The Rock County Telephone Company started business in 1899 with 380 subscribers. The rates then established were adequate for the small exchange and were much lower than the charges for the inferior service of the monopoly in power at that time.

The Company has now 2300 subscribers. The present switchboard and telephones are old-fashioned and relatively slow. Our service cannot be as good as it ought to be and as we should like to have it be. The switchboard and wire plant are outgrown and in many sections we are unable to serve applicants.

The officers of the Company are planning to rehabilitate the entire system, including a new building, the substitution of cable for open wires, considerable underground work and the installation of a new switchboard and telephones at a cost of from $80,000 to $90,000. In view of the great growth of the exchange, entailing constantly increasing expenses, and of the large expenditure necessary to provide improved facilities, a small increase in the rental rates will be necessary.

We have had the Automatic Electric Company of Chicago send a small automatic telephone system here for exhibition to the people of Janesville. This is in Putnam's furniture and crockery store, in charge of competent attendants. This equipment is the best that money can buy. It provides accurate, rapid, secret telephone service and is simple and easy to operate.

We want you to see it and let us know what you think of it. Hundreds of Janesville telephone users have witnessed its operation and with few exceptions have endorsed its use at the increased rates. But we want to hear from all.

The increases contemplated are small and relatively insignificant compared with the increased worth of the automatic service.

We urge everyone who is interested in Janesville's telephone service to see the automatic. The present telephone services, both Bell and Rock County are behind the times.

Janesville needs and wants the best telephone service and we, the home company, want to furnish it.

Come to Putnam's store and see and try this wonderful system. Open evenings.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

TWO WAYS OF TRAVELING.

PREPARE to live by all means, but for Heaven's sake do not forget to live."—Arnold Bennett.

Once upon a time I was driven through a very beautiful country in a splendid motor car. All along the way were lovely roadside flowers which I longed to gather, and wonderful vistas that I wanted to have time to fix upon "that inward eye." But my hostesses were not the kind of people to stop and gather roadside flowers or look long at beautiful vistas. They were "get there" people, and so we whirled along to the journey's end, and when we reached it they heaved sighs of content as if at last they were happy. All of which seemed very strange to me, for theoretically we had come for the pleasure of the journey.

Once again I traveled that same road, this time in an unpretentious conveyance drawn by an unpretentious steed. And because this time my host and hostess were the kind of people who knew how to enjoy a journey and not keep their minds only on the journey's end, we stopped and gathered flowers, and drank at a little brook, and passed the time of day with some fellow travelers, and invited our souls before the wonderful vistas that I had only glimpsed before.

Now which journey do you think I enjoyed the most?

Which would you have enjoyed most? Do you belong to the "get there" folk or to those who think that every moment of the journey should be enjoyed?

And I don't mean only as regards actual traveling, but as regards life itself.

A young girl who had embroidered a beautiful center piece for her mother was complaining because her mother never used the gift. "It's just like all the lovely things mother has," she lamented, "she just puts them away to use sometime. I want her to use them now."

There are many men and women like that mother who are always saving their blessings for sometime. Sometime they will use their beautiful things; sometime they will take time to enjoy their children; sometime they will take advantage of all the opportunities for education and enjoyment that surround them; sometime they will be happy.

Ah! my friends, there is no time for happiness half so good as now. Don't dream of a some day when you can be happy, but be happy right now. "You will never have a better chance for happiness," says a great essayist, "than you have at present. You may think you will have, but you are mistaken."

So get out and gather flowers along the roadside. Only so will you get the most out of the journey of life.

SAVE THE BABIES

Pertinent Suggestions on the care of the little ones during the hot months.

By DR. LESLIE D. SMITH, M. D., D. O.

Readers are invited to use this service by asking questions of Dr. Smith regarding specific cases. Answers will be published in these columns in the order questions are received. Personal replies will be given at no cost when stamped envelope is sent with question. Address all questions to Dr. Smith, care of the Daily Gazette.

Dr. Smith will not prescribe in any case, but will gladly advise the best course to pursue.

Milk from the standpoint of food value, is the most perfect single food. It contains all the necessary food-stuffs in nearly proper proportions. To be a safe food, milk must be absolutely pure, sweet, clean and free from disease germs. When it is all of this, raw milk is a better food, especially for infants than is pasteurized or sterilized milk.

Absolutely pure milk is about as rare an article as are the proverbial "Hen's Teeth."

The frailties of human nature preclude the possibilities of us ever reaching the state where pure foods can be had at all times.

The lack of the sense of responsibility, of cleanliness and common decency on the part of those on whom we depend for our food supply, makes the realization of our ideal of pure food conditions seem ages away.

The whole attitude of those handling our food-stuffs seems to be "What do I care. I'm not going to use it?" or "They will never know the difference."

"Just so it is not found out, it is all right."

An incident quoted from the "Bulletin" of the Department of Health, of the city of Chicago, will illustrate the "Don't Care" attitude and unadulterated filthiness on the part of some people. A dairy inspector while inspecting a certain dairy, noticed a boy seated milking a cow. The peculiar attitude of the boy attracted his attention and upon closer inspection he found that the lad had his dirty-crusty feet perched on the rim of the milk pail milking directly upon them.

first on one foot, then on the other, and permitting the milk to flow from his feet into the milk pail. The investigator upbraided the boy for his filthy practice, remarking that he was doing something which would probably cost the lives of many people.

The boy's only reply was, "What do you care, you ain't goin' to drink this milk; we ship it to the city."

That is the reason why milk should be pasteurized before using.

Of course, all dairies and all milk dealers are not uncleanly in handling their milk. Is yours? Why not find out? Investigate your milk supply. A clean dairy man will do these things and many others: Use utensils of metal only, with smooth seams; never rusty or rough; clean utensils in pure water; rinse with warm water; scrub inside and out with hot cleansing solution and rinse; sterilize with boiling water or steam; then keep utensils in an inverted position in sun and pure air; wipe the cow's udder and surrounding parts with a clean damp cloth immediately before milking. Have the milkers wear clean outer garments; wash hands before milking; milk with dry hands; take milk of each cow immediately to milk room; strain at once, then cool to 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower. He will also know that his cows are healthy and contented.

Assuming that the dairymen and milk dealer have done their duty and delivered the milk clean and safe to you, it then becomes your duty to keep it so. Provide a covered box in a cool place protected from dust, sun and flies. In warm weather take the bottles in as soon as possible after delivery. Before removing the cap wash the cap and outside of the bottle with clean, cold water. Then place the bottle in the icebox which must be kept clean. When the milk has been used, wash the bottle in boiling water and set it away in a clean place until taken by the dealer.

If you suspect that your dealer is using preservatives in the milk, have samples tested by the health officials or your physicians.

nesslike. They've got that independent, thoroughly-capable air about them. They have had experience, and their opinions are worth listening to—they don't hesitate to state them, either. They're all highly respected. But, oh dear!—they're not a bit restful.

"Most of them have that keen look about them that makes you think of a sharp knife. I guess I look that way myself. They don't look as if they could sit down and rock and chat a little without saying something momentous. They've got to work all the time or they think they're wasting precious moments. They're always forging ahead, never contented with well-enough. They'd rather be brilliant than eat, and they're so energetic about bettering conditions for everybody that they can't take enough time off to snuggle any one baby and make it happy for an hour playing with it. And I didn't see one woman there who looked as if she could draw a big man's head down on her shoulder, in his trouble, and comfort him just because she's a woman."

"And yet it's you professional women who are paving the way for the rest of us," mused the other. "We're reaping the benefit of your work. Sometimes I've envied you—out there in the world."

"You needn't declared the other. 'We're doing something, it's true. But we women who have given up the rocking chair for the office chair, are missing a lot of the best things in life, after all.'"

MARY ELLEN'S WAY

She Persuades a Friend to Send Her Boys to Camp

NEXT week, you know, the Davidsons are coming to visit us," said Mary Ellen at the dinner table.

"So they are," responded Mr. Mary-Allen. "I think people ought to stay home in hot weather. It's awful to entertain company."

"I have a notion to run down and see her for a day," went on Mary Ellen.

"What in the world are you going to do that for, when she is coming here next week?" Mr. Mary-Allen asked.

"You know she has two boys, perfect young fellows. They'll be awful."

"They certainly will. But you can't ask her to leave them home."

"I think I'll go spend a day with her."

So Mary Ellen departed and was enthusiastically received by her friend, Mrs. Davidson, and Mrs. Davidson's two boys.

"I just came down to make sure you hadn't forgotten you were coming next week."

"Oh, I couldn't forget that. The boys are wild about it. They are counting the days."

"The dears!" said Mary Ellen. "I do hope they will have a good time. I never thought, until I heard the Anderson boys talking about going to camp, how dull it may be at our place for your boys. Boys do have a good time at camp, don't they?"

"I don't know much about it," replied Mrs. Davidson.

"The Anderson boys are just full of it. They are going to sleep in tents and eat outdoors. And there's a baseball team. And I believe they are to take several hikes,—like real soldiers and scouts and things like that, you know."

"Gee!" exclaimed the Davidson boys. "I wish we could go camping."

"Oh, but think what a good time you'll have at Mrs. Mary Ellen's," said their mother.

The boys were too polite to doubt the good time at Mrs. Mary Ellen's, but their faces showed plainly that it didn't look as good as it had.

"I felt sorry," said Mary Ellen, "when I heard the Andersons talking that I couldn't give your boys as good a time. But, of course, that's impossible. A crowd of boys always have so much fun, and then there's a lake where they swim and fish."

"Oh!" sighed the Davidson boys.

"It does boys so much good to camp. They get so hungry that they eat splendidly. And this with the life outdoors just builds them up. Harry looks sort of run down, doesn't he?"

Mrs. Davidson looked anxiously at her son. "He does, a little," she admitted.

"Camping would be good for them, wouldn't it?"

"It would be the making of them. They are just at an age when an outing like that would do them a world of good. This camp where the Andersons are going is so nice."

"If we weren't coming to your place I believe I would send them."

"We'd rather camp than go to Mrs. Mary Ellen's," shouted the Davidson boys truthfully, if impolitely.

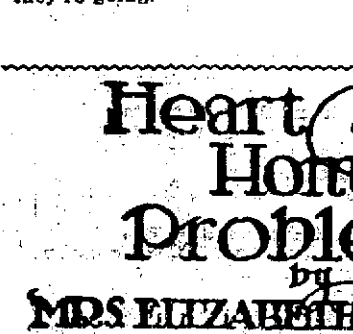

"Oh, boys!" chided Mrs. Davidson.

Mary Ellen smiled. "Don't mind," she said. "I understand children. If you would really like to send them, dear, do it. I shan't feel hurt a bit. I would really like to see them picking up and getting stronger."

"That's dear of you to say it," responded Mrs. Davidson. "If you are sure you won't mind, I believe I will send them."

"It will be the making of them. They'll grow and broaden out and be as hardy as pine knots when they come back. For their sakes, I'm glad they're going."

Heart and Home Problems

by MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a married man and I loved my wife in love with a charming man. He has dark hair and dark eyes. He dresses very stylishly. The only thing that bothers me is that he is tall and his acquaintances call him "Lumberlegs." Do you think this should make any difference in my love? DOT-W.

Your letter is most positive that you don't love the man. If you did you wouldn't care what color of hair or eyes he has, or what anybody calls him.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a married woman and I loved my husband till he got to drinking. Now and then he abuses me in all sorts of ways. He won't let me go out alone or with him either. He says his friends tell him he ought to be proud of his wife, and that is why he is so mean to me. I know a young man who is very sorry for me. He often asks me to go out with him, but I think I would do wrong if I did. I think I could love the other man. What should I do?—Mrs. M. J.

Stay at home and do your duty. If your husband abuses you too much take the matter to the domestic relations court.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man with a grammar school education. I would like to learn electricity. Can you refer me to some free trade schools in Chicago.

CONSTANT READER:

I think there are technical high schools in Chicago where a course in electricity is given. Write to the board of education for information.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would cocoa butter be good for a face massage to banish wrinkles? READER.

Cocoa butter is a skin food, but rather course for a face massage, though it might do no harm if every particle is wiped off after the massage.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Gould

What makes the holes in cheese? This is the question that New York school girls were asked last week. What makes the different flavors in cheese? Would seem to us to be more important, for a meal today is incomplete without cheese of some kind. Americans have tried to imitate the making of native cheese and in some cases have succeeded, but more often the original cheese is still superior. Roquefort cheese is still a monopoly of the French town of that name, southwest of Paris. It is made of goats' milk and the tiny green specks in it are coarse crumbled bread which the peasants throw in when making the cheese. The care and skill required in its manufacture is remarkable; even the moldy bread is as carefully prepared as the cheese itself, being made from the finest of winter barley.

Cheddar cheese was originally made at Cheddar, England. Neuchâtel cheese was first made in Switzerland, but is now manufactured wherever pure cream may be had. Brie cheese is named from the town where it originated, but only a little of it is now imported from France. Gouda cheese is made differently from most cheese in that lactic acid is used instead of rennet in order to exclude the mites from it in the long process of ripening to which the Hollanders

The Parmesan cheese so much desired by lovers of au gratin dishes is made only in Italy; residents of little Italy import this cheese and Cleveland housewives can supply themselves with it by visiting any Italian grocery. As it is very high in flavor a small quantity will season a number of dishes. It is par excellence for macaroni, potatoes and other vegetable dishes, but for Welsh rabbits use Edam or Pineapple cheese or well flavored and ripened New York cream cheese.

American cheese makers have solved the making of pineapple cheese to perfection but they do not tell their customers to cut it so the upper portion may be used for a cap while the inside is cut out as needed, preserving both the cheese and its shape.

Cheese dries so fast that it soon becomes too hard for the table, so protect it from the air, but never keep it in the refrigerator. A white cotton cloth moistened in vinegar and wrapped around the cheese will preserve it but the better way is to purchase just what you need.

Cheese soufflé, omelets and ramekins are served with the meat course; cheese straws with the salad; Edam and pineapple cheese are wrapped in a plaited napkin and passed with the pastry course; Stilton and Chesters are cut in two and half used at a time; American dairy cheese is cut in uniform pieces and laid on a folded napkin on a cheese platter. Soft cheeses are served whole with a cheese knife on the platter. Fresh, unsweetened butter wafer biscuits, and celery and olives are served with the cheese.

Cream cheese, pie was a popular pastry when milk and cream were to be had for a less price than today, but almost everyone has sour milk once in a while from which to make the cottage cheese or can buy the cheese, rich and creamy, on our market. The recipe is a "banded-down" one:

Four eggs, one pint of cottage cheese, one lemon, one and a half cups of sugar.

Beat the whites and the yolks of the eggs separately; to the beaten yolks add the sugar, mixing until it is dissolved, then add the grated rind and the juice of the lemon. Rub the cheese through the ricer or sieve and add it. Beat all again thoroughly and fold the beaten whites in gently.

Like a pie in with rich pastry, pour in the mixture and bake in a moderate oven. This recipe will make two large pies.

DOUBLY PROVEN.

Janesville Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

This Janesville citizen testified long ago.

Told of quick relief—of lasting benefit.

The facts are now confirmed.

Such testimony is complete—the evidence conclusive.

It forms convincing proof of merit.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 118 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for ten or twelve years. My kidneys became sluggish and their failure to do their work properly caused me to become weak and helpless. The kidney secretions were very unnatural and often my joints were sore and swollen. I had almost given up hope of getting relief when I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a supply at the People's Drug Co., and they soon restored my kidneys to a normal condition. I advise other kidney sufferers to try this remedy." (Statement given in August, 1908.)

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Mrs. Johnson was interviewed on September 23, 1910, and she added to the above: "It took pleasure in again recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and advising their use in all cases of kidney trouble. I am still free from kidney complaint and my back does not bother me to any extent."

WELCOME SUNSHINE AFTER HEAVY RAINS

Warm Weather May Prove Salvation Of Corn and Tobacco Crops—Will Rush Stacking of Grain.

Bright, warm sunshine was never more cordially welcome than now after nearly a week of gloomy weather and steady downpour. In fact it is of infinite value to the farmers of Rock county and in consequently appreciated by them to the fullest extent. It means that the corn and tobacco crops will be given a chance to recuperate from the over abundance of rain and with several weeks of warm, dry weather possible failures for these two staples will be turned into very acceptable yields.

Cultivation is the program for tobacco fields where the crop has not grown too large. Even in cases where the plants are almost large enough to top farmers find it advisable to go through with a narrow one horse harrow in order to stir the ground and prevent musing. The complaint in regard to the corn crop is that ears are not forming as they should and with the abundance of moisture the growth will all be to fodder instead of to grain. In some localities the corn fields are checked with spots of dwarfed and stunted patches and the leaves of the plants are fired at the bottom. Investigation has shown that this condition is a result of the activity of white grubs and in many places the yield will be cut in two, so great is the damage they have done.

Another reason that the farmers are especially grateful to Old Sol is on account of the action of his rays in the grain fields. Here the shocks have been opened and spread out to the drying heat and toward the end of the week the grain will be rushed to stacks. In some places the wet weather has started growth in the bundles resulting in considerable damage. Rye and barley have suffered especially.

With the vitalizing sunshine the pastures have taken on a new shade of green and fall feed will be abundant. This will be a boon in sections where the hay crop was short. The new seeding has also been greatly benefited and a bumper hay crop is predicted for next year.

The crop damage has been greater in other sections of the state according to reports. In the central part near Keosauqua it is stated that the corn is turning back, potatoes are rotting in the ground and grain is being beaten out of the stalk. Cantaloupe and cucumber crops are ruined.

In the Fox and Wolf River valleys the damage has been especially severe for here floods have brought destruction. A writer in the Appleton Post says:

"It is estimated that the loss by the flood of this season, in the vicinity of Sheboygan alone, will exceed $100,000. This estimate is most conservative one, and is not based on such prices as prevailed here last fall. Were the loss to be estimated on the basis of last season's prices it would double the amount named. It is to be wondered at that these losses put in a protest against a system that makes such loss possible, when, in the opinion of such men as U. S. Engineer Mann of Oshkosh, it is preventable by the proper operation of dams along the river."

"Many farmers in this vicinity have lost all their crops. They have nothing to feed their stock, and are selling it off for whatever they can get for it. They will be obliged to depend upon such odds and ends of work as they can pick up in order to secure a living for themselves and their families until a crop can be grown next year—provided we do not have a repetition of this year's experience."

Impress of a Great Man.

In the heart of Africa, among the great lakes, I came across black men and women who remembered the only white man they ever saw before—David Livingstone; and as you cross his footsteps in the dark continent, men's faces light up as they speak of the kind doctor who passed there years ago. They could not understand him; but they felt the love that beat in his heart.—Henry Drummond.

Not a Waste of Time.

Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer's day listening to the murmur of the water and watching the clouds float across the sky is by no means waste of time.—Lord Avebury.

A FINE TRIBUTE TO SCOUT PRINCIPLES

Member of Olympic Committee Says American Athletes Won Because They Were Prepared.

Luther Halsey Gulick, member of the Olympic Committee and also of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, says in the August issue of the Boys' Life Magazine that the American athletes proved victorious in the Olympic games because they excelled in four qualities.

"They won because they were prepared," he writes, and thus pays tribute to the Boy Scout motto: "Be Prepared."

"Every man was trained to the minute. He had made getting himself ready for his test his main business for quite a period. They all realized that if the Olympic games were worth going into they were worth going into thoroughly, and so they prepared themselves for these games as if they were the main business of life, and indeed they were for the time being."

"The men obeyed. When a man goes into athletic work or business or any other enterprise involving a great many men, it is necessary that they work together. It is necessary that they do absolutely what those over them say. I am told that some of the men from other countries did not obey with reference to sleep, with reference to eating, with reference to sundry other things which interfere with their physical condition. The men themselves did not realize that absolute obedience was the price of success. The American athletes obeyed."

"They pulled together; they did team work. The trainer picked out just the events that each man should enter, so that the team, as a whole, should make the very best showing possible, rather than that each man should appear as prominent as possible. For example, if America, in a certain race, only had one first-class competitor who also chanced to be good in two other events in which they were several other American competitors as good as he, and particularly if this was a hard contest, it would be better for the one American competitor who was good at the race in hand to enter that race and not enter the others. The American athletes pulled together. Their team work was a genuine source of power to them."

"America sent the best material she could get to Sweden to win their races. She put in charge of the athletes the best trainers and advisers that could be secured."

"These four qualities, I believe, won the games in Stockholm. They are the same qualities that win in scholarship, business and everything else in the world."

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

THE VILLAIN.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

The villain is a low-browed piece of melodrama who is continually poisoning the heroine's pure mind by showing her a fake telegram.

His business is to wreck a happy home by springing a chafed mortgage on somebody who is behind on the rent.

The villain is a despicable character and is hated with great intensity by the female portion of the audience, who indulge in blood-curdling chuckles whenever he is killed in the last act.

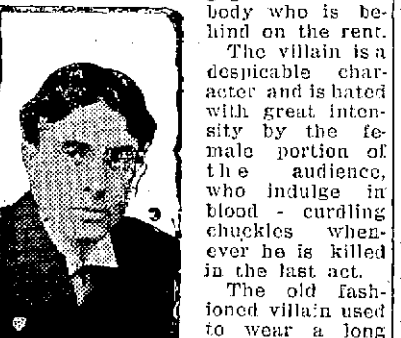

The old fashioned villain used to wear a long Italian mustache and a pair of hip boots, both of which were liable to fall off in moments of intense emotion. He was also given to producing his consonants with a sibilant hiss and breathing several kinds of vivacious murder into the recumbent ears of his victims.

The modern villain wears a long, gray frock coat and pearl studs, and talks the same kind of English that is used in the graphophone. He usually has a piercing eye and long wither the leading lady with one of his candlepower glances. He is unable to do this, he is deprived of his frock coat and obliged to double on the bass tuba in the orchestra.

If it were not for the villain, the drama would be about as exciting as a game of croquet at an Old Ladies' home. He is always coming in just in time to interrupt the marriage ceremony with a forged check or set somebody's barn on fire two days after the insurance has expired.

In the society plays now so popular the villain is invariably a post-graduate flirt who is not on speaking terms with his wife, owing to her lack of temperament. This kind of villain is always hunting for temperaments which will match up with his ideas of platonic friendship, and when he finds it there is generally a divorce.

Villains are sometimes taken from real life, and never have to make up. On the other hand, many of our most successful villains are good husbands, who make love on the stage with their fingers crossed.

FLYING MEN FALL.

victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles just like other people, with like results in loss of appetite, backache, nervousness, headache, and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that as T. D. Peebles, Henry, Tenn., proved. "Six bottles of Electric Bitters" he writes, "did more to give me new strength and good appetite than all other stomach remedies I used." So they help everybody. PRAISES QUALITIES OF LATE S. C. COBB

Traits of Character of Mr. Cobb Eulogized in Article Written by Former Companion.

In an article published in one of the Milwaukee papers, high tribute to the qualities of the late Samuel C. Cobb, both as a soldier and as a man, are paid by a former comrade of Mr. Cobb, who wrote the article. Especial mention is made of the spirit of cordiality which characterized Mr. Cobb's attitude towards his comrades in the war and toward all with whom he came in contact. The article is as follows:

The death of Maj. Samuel C. Cobb, Thirtieth Wisconsin, former mayor of Janesville, takes another of the few officers who commanded Wisconsin regiments at the end of the Civil war. Col. Clement H. Warner of the Thirtieth Wisconsin, still in vigorous health, is another.

Col. Cobb enlisted as a private and won his promotions up through all of the ranks, beginning as a corporal. His last commission was that of a lieutenant colonel, but he did not muster as such. He came home in command of the regiment.

Having grown up with the Thirtieth, nearly every one of the original members of the regiment knew and admired him. He was "one of the boys." A private could approach him as readily as one of his captains.

One seldom meets a member of the Thirtieth Wisconsin without hearing something about "Sam Cobb." It was "Sam Cobb" with the colonel, all of the captains, lieutenants, sergeants, corporals and privates. It was not military, but there was much heart and good fellowship.

FULTON

Fulton, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Ralph Morphet and son Donald left last week for their home in Chicago after spending the past five weeks in Fulton.

Miss Grace Dipple of Chicago is the guest of Miss Etta Hubbell, this week.

Misses Minnie and Nellie Hubbell entertained a company of ladies at their home Wednesday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Marion Greene Smith, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Miss Marie Beale of Madison is the guest of Miss Hortense Ely this week.

Mrs. Frank Pearson spent Saturday in Janesville.

Mrs. Andrew Schwada is visiting relatives in Chicago.

Miss Ruth Bentley was home from Chicago from Sunday until Wednesday.

Mr. George Marwin returned home Thursday from Chicago where he had been visiting relatives.

Misses Eva Schroeder of Janesville and Henrietta Lintved of Edgerton were guests of Miss Olive Greene Wednesday, and attended the S. S. picnic.

Miss Sarah Sutherland returned to her home in Janesville Sunday.

School re-opens here Monday, Sept. 9th, with the Misses Helen Brunell as principal and Charity Winsor, in the primary. Both of Evansville.

Miss Eleanor Crook returned to her home in Green County on Monday after a week's visit with Vera Ross.

Mrs. Forest Fessenden and son Byron visited relatives in Richland Center returning on Tuesday, accompanied by Mr. Fessenden's sister, Mrs. Nate Dicks.

In response to invitations a large crowd assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Earle on Monday evening to help them to celebrate their daughter, Lucile's, eighteenth birthday. The evening was very pleasant, spent in dancing and at midnight delicious refreshments were served. A beautiful gold ring was left as a memento of the happy occasion.

Hay Fever Vanishes Quickly Under Chiropractic Adjustments

No Necessity of Making Long Trips to the Northern Country to Avoid This Malady. Chiropractic Gets at the Cause and Removes it and Nature Makes You Well.

The mucous membrane of the throat and nose of the person who is subject to Hay Fever has been weakened by a subluxation of the vertebra as shown in the illustration. When the millions of pollen which float through the air at this time of the year strike the nasal passages the tender membrane is not strong enough to resist and the distressing irritation known as Hay Fever sets in.

When the subluxation is corrected and the proper amount of nerve stimulation is allowed to reach the membrane the Hay Fever is not contracted, or where it has been contracted it disappears quickly. One case of over seven years standing disappeared after a few adjustments and the man has not been troubled since. If you are troubled with Hay Fever call and let the Chiropractor relieve you at once.

Sufferers from Asthma, which is particularly annoying at this time of the year, will find ready relief in Chiropractic.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—If Father had time he'd probably think of some more.

"I thought," she said, "tracing a great arc from one side to the other, that you were with your loving family—opening the hall, probably."

He did not move, but said quietly: "It was impossible to get the invitation, Berny. I tried to do it and was refused. I want you to understand that as long as I live I'll never do a thing like that again."

"Oh, yes, you will," she said laughing and shaking her head like an amused child. "Oh, yes, you will." She threw her head back and, looking at the ceiling, laughed still louder with a note of fierceness in the sound. "You'll do it and lots more things like it. You'll do it if I want you to, Dominick Ryan."

He did not answer. She hitched her chair closer to the bed as if to return to an engrossing pastime, and leaning back luxuriously, resumed her play with the cane. This time Dominick noticed the noise and turned. She was conscious that he was looking at her, and began to scratch with an appearance of charmed absorption, such as an artist might display in his work. He watched her for a moment in silent astonishment and then broke out sharply:

"What are you doing?"

"Scratching the bed," responded calmly.

"You must be mad," he said, striding

"Have I married Con Ryan's Son to Need Money and Bother About Bills?"

ing angrily toward her and stretching a hand for the cane. "You're ruining it."

She whipped the cane to the other side, out of his reach.

"Am I?" she said, turning an eye of fiery menace on him. "Maybe I am, and what's that matter?" Then, turning back the bed, "Too bad, isn't it, and the set not paid for yet."

"Not paid for!" he exclaimed, so amazed by the statement that he forgot everything else. "Why, I've given you the money for it twice!"

"Three times," she amended coolly, "and I spent it on things I liked better. I bought clothes, and jewelry with it, and little fixings I wanted. Yes, the bedroom set isn't all paid for yet and we've had it nearly two years. Who would have thought that the son of Con Ryan couldn't pay his bills!"

She rose, threw the cane into the corner, and, turning toward him, leaned back, half-sitting on the footboard, her hands, palm downward, pressed on its rounded top.

Dominick and she had had many quarrels, ignominious and repulsive, but he had never before seen her in so savage a mood. Even yet he had not lost the feeling of responsibility and remorse he felt toward her. As he moved from the mantelpiece his eyes had fallen on the bed-dress that lay, a sweep of lace and silver, across the bed, and on the bureau he had seen jewels and hair ornaments laid out among the powder boxes and scent bottles. The paths of these futile preparations appealed to him and he made an effort to be patient and just.

"It's been a disappointment," he said, "and I'm sorry about it. But I've done all I could and there's no use doing any more. You've got to give it up. There's no use trying to make my mother give in. She won't."

"Won't she?" she cried, her voice suddenly loud and shaken with rage. "We'll see! We'll see! We'll see if I'm married into the Ryan family for nothing!"

Her wrath at last loosened, her control was instantly swept away. In a moment she was that appalling sight, a violent and vulgar woman in a raging passion. She ran around the bed and, seizing the dress, threw it on the floor and stamped on it, grinding the delicate fabric into the carpet with her heels.

"There!" she cried. "That's what I feel about it. That's the way I'll treat the things and the people I don't like! That dress—it isn't paid for, but I don't want it. I'll get another when I do. Have I married Con Ryan's son to need money and bother about bills? Not on your life! Did you notice the gas? Every burner turned on. Well, I did it just to have a nice bright house for you when you came home without the invitation. We haven't paid the bill for two months—but what does that matter? We're related to the Ryans. We don't have to trouble about bills."

He saw that she was beyond arguing with and turned to leave the room. She sprang after him and caught him by the arm, pouring out only too coherent streams of rage and abuse. It was the old story of the "wrongs" she had suffered at his hands and his "ruin" of her. Tonight it had no power to move him and he shook her off and left the room. She ran to the door behind him and leaning out, cried it after him.

He literally fled from her, down the hallway, with the open doorways sending their lurid light and hissing noise across his passage. As he reached the dining-room he heard her bang the door and with aggressive noise turn the key in the lock and shoot the bolt. Even at that moment the lack of necessity for such a precaution caused a bitter smile to move his lips.

He entered the dining-room and sat down by the table, his head on his hands. He sat thus for some hours, trying to think what he should do. He found it impossible to come to any definite conclusion for the future; all he could decide upon now was the necessity of leaving his wife, getting a respite from her, withdrawing himself from the sight of her. He had never loved her, but tonight the pity and responsibility he had felt seemed to be torn from his life as a morning wind tears a cobweb from the grass.

The dawn was whitening the window-panes when he finally got pen and paper and wrote a few lines. These, without prefix or signature, stated that he would leave the city for a short time and not to make any effort to find where he had gone or communicate with him. He wrote her name on the folded paper and placed it in front of the clock. Then he stole into his bedroom—they had occupied separate rooms for over six months—and packed a valise with his oldest and roughest clothes. After this he waited in the dining-room till the light was bright and the traffic of the day loud on the pavement, before he crept down the long stairway and went out into the crystal freshness of the morning.

CHAPTER IV.

Out of Night and Storm.

When Rose Cannon woke on the morning after her arrival at Antelope, a memory of the snowflakes of the evening before made her jump out of bed and patter barefooted to the window. It seemed to her it would be "lots of fun" to be snowed up at Antelope, and when she saw only a thin covering of white on the hotel garden and the diminishing perspective of roofs, she drew her mouth into a grimace of disappointment.

With hunched-up shoulders, her hands tucked under her arms, she stood looking out, her breath blurring the pane in a dissolving film of smoke. It was a cold little world. Below her the garden—the summer pride of Perley's Hotel—lay a mere, withered waste, its shrubs stiff in the grip of the cold. The powdering of snow on its frost-bitten leaves and grizzled grass added to its air of bleakness. Beyond rose the shingled roofs of Antelope's main street. Rose, standing gazing up, wondered if her father would go on to Greenhide, the new camp twenty miles from Antelope, where an important strike had recently been made.

Half an hour later when they met at breakfast he told her he would not leave for Greenhide that morning. Perley had warned him not to attempt it, and he for his part knew the country well enough to realize that it would be foolhardy to start under such a threatening sky. It would be all right to stop over at Antelope till the weather made up its mind what it meant to do. It might not be fun for her, but then he had warned her before they left San Francisco that she would have to put up with rough accommodations and unaccustomed discomforts.

Rose laughed. Her father did not understand that the roughness and novelty of it all was what she enjoyed. He was already a man of means when she was born, and she had known nothing of the hardships and privations through which he and her mother had struggled up to fortune. Rocky Bar the night before and Antelope this morning were her first glimpses of the mining region over which the pioneers had awarmed in '49. Bill Cannon, only a lad in his teens among them.

Perley's warnings of bad weather were soon verified. Early in the afternoon the idle, occasional snowflakes had begun to fall thickly, with a soft, persistent steadiness of purpose.

At four o'clock, Willoughby, the Englishman who had charge of the shut-down Bella K. mine, came, butting head down against the wind, a group of dogs at his heels, to claim the hospitality of the hotel. His watchman, an old timer, had advised him to seek a shelter better stored with provisions than the office building of the Bella K. Willoughby, whose accent and manner had proclaimed him as one of high distinction before he was known in Antelope that he was "some relation to a lord," was made welcome in the bar. His four red setter dogs, shut out from that hospitable retreat by the swirling door, grouped around it and stared expectantly, each shout from within being answered by them with plaintive and ingratiating whines.

The afternoon was still young when the day began to darken. Rose Cannon, who had been sitting in the parlor, dreaming over a fire of logs, went to the window, wondering at the growing gloom. The wind had risen to a wild, sweeping speed, that tore the snow flake as mist. There were no lazy, woolly flakes now. They had turned into an opaque, slanting veil which here and there curled into snowy mounds and in other places left the ground bare.

Rose looked out on it with an interest that was a little sober than the debonair blitheness of her morning mood. If it kept up they might be snowed in for days. Perley had said. That being the case, this room, the hotel's one parlor, would be her retreat, her abiding place—for her bedroom was as cold as an ice-chest—until they were liberated. With the light, half-whimsical smile that came so readily to her lips, she turned from the window and surveyed it judicially.

She was leaving the window to return to her seat by the fire when the complete isolation that seemed to hold the outside world in a spell was broken by sudden sounds. Voices, the crack of a whip, then a grinding thump against the hotel porch, caught her ear and whirled her back to the pane. A large covered vehicle, with the whitened shapes of a smoking team drooping before it, had just drawn up at the steps. Two masculine figures, carrying bags, emerged from the interior, and from the driver's seat a muffled shape—a cylinder of wrappings which appeared to have a lively human core—gave forth much loud and profane language. The isolation and remoteness of her surroundings had already begun to affect the town-bred young lady. She ran to the door of the parlor, as innocently curious to see the new arrivals who had found out who they were as though she had lived in Antelope for a year.

Looking down the hall she saw the front door open violently inward and two men hastily enter. The wind seemed to blow in and before Perley's boy could press the door shut the snow had whitened the damp matting. No stage passed through Antelope in these days of its decline, and the curiosity felt by Rose was shared by the whole hotel. The swing door to the bar opened and men pressed into the aperture. Mrs. Perley came up from the kitchen, wiping a dish. Cora appeared in the dining-room doorway, and in answer to Miss Cannon's inquiringly lifted eyebrows, called across the hall:

"It's the Murphyville stage on the down-trip to Rocky Bar. I guess they thought they couldn't make it. The driver don't like to run no risks and so he's brought 'em round this way and dumped 'em here. There ain't but two passengers. That's them."

She indicated the two men who, standing by the hall stove, were divesting themselves of their wraps. One of them was a tall upright old man with a sweep of grizzled beard covering his chest, and gray hair falling from the dome of a bald head. (To be Continued.)

Why He Sighed.

"There will be no marriage nor giving in marriage in heaven," said Mrs. Henpeck. Mr. Henpeck drew a long, deep, and sigh. "Why do you look so sad about it, Henry?" she asked. "We haven't any such assurance about conditions in the other place."

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

If you go around the world with countenance nicely curled into a pleasant smile, the people you meet will say, as you waddle along your way, that you are a man worth while. I don't mean a silly grin; that sort of a thing will win no praise as it loops the loop; for there are a dozen styles (the same as in hats) of smiles, and some aren't worth three whoops. The kind of a smile I mean is the smile that is daily seen on the face of the cheerful agent who regulates things so well that honor and comfort dwell for aye in his moving tent. He works like a bristled steer, serenely, year after year, as gay as your marriage bells; and when it is time to play he utters a loud "hooray!" and kicks up his heels and yells. Collection day never frets this man, for he has no debts, he pays as he goes along, and down in the banker's vaults some guilders each week he salts, and life is a grand sweet song. He mixes in no fool's strife, contented and calm and cool; he helps people in a plight, and treats all his neighbors white, and sticks to the Golden Rule. The smile on his face unrolled is genuine, good as gold, extending from ear to ear, and you'll never wear that grin unless you at once begin a useful and sane career.

CAUSE FOR GLADNESS.

"Twas eventide. The boy stood on the bridge, clapping his hands vigorously. Beyond the brow of the hill a dull red glow suffused the sky.
"Ah, little boy," remarked the stranger, who was rather near-sighted. "It does my heart good to see you appreciate your beautiful cloud effect!"
"Yes, sir," replied the lad. "I've been watching it for ten minutes."
Upon the boy's face there appeared a smile of radiant bliss.
"A real poet, without a doubt. And do you watch sunsets often, little boy?"
"Sunsets? Why, that ain't a sunset, guv'nor! That's the village school burning down!"—Answers.

A MATTER OF TASTE.

"I'll never be happy till I get a vote," shrieked the suffragette promoter.
"But I'll be happy," sighed the maiden demure, "when I can get a voter."

What kind of coat?

The Danish Plan.

In Denmark, as in other countries, they are troubled with men born tired, men who are "snow-shovelers in summer and haymakers in winter." Denmark takes them firmly but kindly and puts them to bed. In bed it keeps them as long as may be necessary. Four days are, as a rule, sufficient for the most obdurate cases. At the end of that time the idler is found to be feverish for work.

Old Embalming Secret.

Having preserved and kept for about 40 years the body of an adult man, prepared for burial, Undertaker T. J. Hummel of Minersville, Pa., thinks he has rediscovered the old Egyptian embalming process.

Grow Without Help.

Weeds and bad habits are about the only things that grow without any help.

Arnold's Unfailing Tact.
Recollections of Justin McCarthy are numerous just now. One of them speaks of a conversation between McCarthy and Dean Stanley. While they were talking Matthew Arnold was announced, and the dean, addressing the new arrival, said: "Come here, Matt, and let me bring you face to face with the man who says you are only a miniature Goethe." McCarthy was naturally embarrassed at the repetition of a remark that seemed to be ill-natured. "Oh, come, now, I didn't say only a miniature Goethe," he stammered, but Arnold promptly relieved the situation by remarking with a winning smile: "If he could only convince me that I am a miniature Goethe, how proud of myself he would make me."

Bones Act as Barometer.

The merits of bone as an indicator of fair or foul weather have been vouched for by the captain of an Italian steamer carrying a cargo of bones from the South American port of Buenos Aires to New York. When the ship was sailing toward a storm the skipper stated; recently, the bones creaked and moaned, and when fair weather was ahead they were silent again.
